DUNNE APOLOGISM TO THE INSPECTOR. tolent Ex-Alderman Pleads Guilty in the Police Court to an Assault.

Ex-Alderman James Dunne, the keeper of the City Hall in Brooklyn, yesterday morning appeared before Justice Walsh in the Adams Street Police Court in a deeply penitent frame of mind, and pleaded guilty to an assault on Inspector John MacKellar, who received a telling blow in the jaw from Dunne's left hand on the morning of April 25. Dunne visited Police Headquarters that morning, avowedly to put a for writing an objectionable article on "Brook-lyn's Bruisers" for a New York paper. In-spector MacKellar interferred to preserve the peace in the sacred precincts of the Police De-partment. head on Property Clerk William II. Muldoon partment, and while so engaged caught the stinging and blood-drawing blow. Ever since the occurrence Dunne has kept very quiet, and his friends have given it out that he deeply regretted the act, but at the same time that persons acquainted with the inside facts excused sons acquainted with the inside facts excused his indignation at Mr. Muldoon on account of the bitter newspaper assault on one of Dunne's unfortunate friends long since dead.

Dunne came into the court yesterday with Mr. William Bullivan, his lawyer. Alderman James Kane. Supervisor Cullen, ex-Alderman Dwyer, and other friends. When Inspector MacKellar had taken the stand and was about to proceed with his testimony, Mr. Bullivan thus addressed the Court:

thus addressed the Court:

I am happy to say that Nr. Dunns evinces a very commendable spirit under the circumstances, and after consulting with me has concluded to plead guilty to this complaint, which only involves a charge of simple assault and battery. Your thoors is therefore relieved from the unpleasant day of trying the case, and nothing but the exists of punishment remains to be considered. I am confident that you will fix such a degree of punishment as will amount to a vindleation of public justice, and rittle your judicial majestly will not be inflamed and sight fines are imposed. The assault was not intended, and Mr. Dunne, whether justify or wrongly, feels that from time to time he has been unfairly dealt with. There are few men who have not done something in their lives which they would wish to have forgotten, and they are naturally indignant when these acts are revived. Mr. Dunne is a man of strong sympathetic nature, he has a wrife to whom he is deeply attached, and helploss innocent children. It is soo much to expect of human mature, that under certain circumstances and under certain exigencies there will not be a temporary and momentary solulition of retuper. Mr. Dunne would not harm a child. He has no mailes, not ill will against inspector Mackellar. Holding a public office as he dees, his feeling of humitation is greater than if he were a private individual. It is conceded to off the proper of the proper of the second of the p

Justice Walsh said that as the matter had taken a different shape from what he expected, and as he had not considered the matter of punishment, he would reserve his decision punishment, he would reserve his decision until to-morrow morning.

Before leaving the court room, Dunne made a personal apology to Inspector MacKellar, and shook his hand, as an assurance of his kindly seding. The Inspector smiled his forgiveness, and returned the grasp of the ex-Alderman. There is no expectation, either among Dunne's friends or in police circles, that the penalty will be more severe than a fine.

HE WENT TO RECLAIM HER.

ether-in-Law's Disastrous Mission to a Disorderly House in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—Henry Fritz cut Minnie Wilson's throat this morning in a Poplar street dive. The woman is now in the hospital with no hope of recovery. The woman was the sister of Fritz's wife. Their home was in Eric, Pa., where Fritz's wife still is. They learned Pa., where Fritz's wife still is. They learned some time ago that the girl was in St. Louts following a life of shame, and it was agreed that Henry should come here and endeavor to reclaim her. He came and tried hard to get her to return home with him. Failing in this he became disgusted, got drunk, and eventually became the girl's companion in sin. They have been close companions for a week, and both have been drunk nearly all the time.

This morning it seems he was seized with remoree, and about 9 o'clock, while both were sitting on the bed in the girl's room, he plunged a pocket knife into her throat. He made no effort to escape, but stood gazing in a stupefled manner at his bleeding victim when the police same in and arrested him.

A Negre's Fathetic Appeal for Mercy.

Wm. Matthews, a negro, aged 28 years, pleaded guilty before Justice Kenna in Brooklyn to a charge of assault, but made this appeal for mercy:

"I have not only received the regenerating spirit of God, having been washed in His most precious blood, that I ask the Court for any sympathy in my behalf, but I have received such education from God as to fit me for a lawyer in this case. I simply sak that your Honor will sympathize with that heart broken grief-stricken woman whose hair is tinged with gray, whose footstep, once fearless and bold, are now feeble, and who is dying inch by inch through arter caused by her disobedient son. William II. Matthews. I ask the forgiveness of the Court, of the plaintiff in this case, and likewise of your Honor, in behalf of my mother, to whom I owe my life. I fear that another imprissiment will kill her. I love my mother, and should she die through grief, I would not avail myself of, or neither would the responsible for the pash act I would commit in order that I might lay beside in the cold silent tonak my mother's murderer."

Benience was deferred until Monday.

until 1880. So she bade Mr. Van Vechten to stand up and tell the reason why, or else she would do it herself.

The reason, as stated by the joint effort of lawyer and elient, was that Miss Mattern had been approached by the other side with proposals for a settlement, and had waited all day in her counsel's office for the negotiations to begin. But for that she would have been able to produce her witnesses, and she declared her belief that she had been tricked again.

Mr. Bennett for Mr. Sage, said he did not believe there were any such witnesses, and he demanded their names. Miss Mattern refused to divulge them.

The lawyers and the plaintiff outtalked the referce. The lady was the most eloquent, and Mr. Bennett was moved to exclaim:

"No wonder Mr. Sage bought stock for her," and "you can see how she got a grip on poor Bage."

An adjournment to Wednesday next was agreed on. On the sidewalk in Nassau street Miss Mattern began to tell nine reporters about the way she had been tricked into believing that a settlement was to be made. A crowd gathered and trucks and passing cabe stopped so that the drivers could look on and ask, "What's the matter I' and Miss Mattern's lawyers took her away.

Neither Miss Mattern's lawyers nor those of Mr. Sage would talk about the settlement; but they would not deuy Miss Mattern's statements.

REVELATIONS OF SCIENCE. The Real Cause of Life and How It Sustained Explained-Righ Anthorities.

A well-known college professor was entertaining company of friends the other evening and, during remarks, said: company of friends the other evering, and, during his remarks, said:

"You all know the surface of fishes is coated with a substaince which is called mucus, and that it is somewhat similar in form, though different in quality, to the mucous lining of the human system. The entire interior of the body is covered with a nuccom membrane. It is sensitive, and forms the beats of life. It absorbs life giving properties from food, from drink, and from the air, and it is the only way by which life can be sustained. When it becomes inflamed or irritated it causes colds, dysepsia, pseumonia, dysentery, and often death. Nine-tenths of all known diseases have their origin in the mucous membrane. The poteon in the air and in food is simply thousands of germs which attack this mucous surface, and it is only by killing these germs that the poteoneus irritation they cause can be removed. Kill the germs. I knew of nothing that will so certainly do this as a pure spirit stimulant." Prof. Austin Flint of Bellevue College says: "The judicious use of alsoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicane during the last half century," and his views are confirmed by Frofs. Carpenter, Farrish, Gardner, and others

It being true that pure spirits furnish the best means of expelling germs and wording off disease and death, it follows that only pure spirits can be valuable. Instead of warding off disease, impure spirits came it, but when so prominent a scientist as Prof. Henry Mott. Ph. D., F. C. S., says: "By a most careful analysis I have found Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey free from adulterations or foreign substances, and it deserves to meet with great success," it means that Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey is absolutely the purest in the market. This is proven not only by analysis, but by the wonderful effects it is having upon the community. The well-known Dr. E. W. Hutchinson of New York says: "I highly recommend Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey, and preseribe it extensively in my practice." Rev. B. Mills of Princeton, Jowa, says: "I have used Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey, with great benefit to my tice." Rev. B. Mills of Princeton, Iowa, says: "I have used Duff's Prev Malt Whiskey with great benefit to my wife, who is a confirmed invalid. I know from experience it is a pure and most valuable medicine. I am also uning it in the case of my son, who is threatened with consumption. I am a Presbyterian clergyman and a doctor of divinity, but I am not afraid to recommend Duffy's Malt Whiskey as the purest and most efficient tents that I know of, and my experience is a large one." But while the wonderful properties of this purest of remedies are beyond question, special care abould be exercised to secure the GENUINE. Duffy's Malt Whiskey is the only worthy preparation in the market, and has is the only worthy preparation in the market, and has atood the test of time, although surrounded by numerous unworthy imitations.
